

From: Larry Winslow
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/26/01 2:27pm
Subject: Microsoft settlement thoughts

I haven't read the complete settlement although I did give it careful attention. It seems to be missing 2 items.

1. What is going to be the punishment for Microsoft? It appears that they are getting off scott-free for their past monopolistic conduct.
2. Shouldn't there be some compensation for those companies and/or public who were damaged by Microsoft's conduct? I wonder how many companies have gone under or have been severely damaged. How much extra has the public had to pay for products? I read a Microsoft statement in the Caldera filings where Microsoft declared it could price things lower and still be priced competitively.

Thanks
Larry Winslow
4500 Whitman Ave N
Seattle, WA 98103